Program Profile

Master of Science
Interdisciplinary Studies in Biological and Physical Sciences
Harlem Campus

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

- All major courses in the M.S. Program are taught by professors of the Touro College of Osteopathic Medicine.
- M.S. students attend some major courses alongside the current D.O. class.
- Admission to the D.O. Program at Touro College of Osteopathic Medicine is an important feature of this program- typically, 30-35 students are offered direct admission to TouroCOM each year.
- Conferral of the M.S. degree is contingent on a GPA of 3.0 or higher and a Pass on the Comprehensive Examination.

PROGRAM TIMELINE

- Online applications will be accepted from November 1 through April 1. All supporting materials must be received by April 15.
- All M.S. students matriculate in the Fall Semester, and the program must be completed within two semesters:

-Fall Semester begins end of July

-Spring Semester begins early January

-Graduation is early in May

Mission Statement

The Touro College of Osteopathic Medicine is committed to training osteopathic physicians, with a particular emphasis on practicing medicine in underserved communities, and to increasing the number of underrepresented minorities in medicine. We value and support public service, research, graduate medical education, and osteopathic clinical service in the community that will strive to improve health outcomes for those we serve. We will work to educate students through the use of the latest innovative education techniques using summative and formative measures so as to graduate qualified osteopathic physicians.

The Program and its Objectives

The Master of Science program in Interdisciplinary Studies in Biological and Physical Sciences has been carefully designed for students who have the strong ambition to complete a medical education. The program is intended to immerse students in the Medical College Curriculum so that candidates can determine whether the content satisfies their academic curiosity while the Medical College evaluates their potential for professional success.

All courses are offered at the Touro College of Osteopathic Medicine campus in Harlem and are presented by the Medical College Faculty in lecture, workshop and laboratory venues. The major courses include graduate students in the Medical College classroom and laboratory.

Medical College Courses include Anatomy and Embryology, Biochemistry, Genetics, Histology/Cell Biology, Immunology and Microbiology, Neuroanatomy and Physiology.

The faculty will encourage students to reach their full potential as they learn to focus on clear objectives in each course. Student performance will be closely followed with frequent evaluations and opportunities for corrections throughout each term.

Admission to the D.O. Program at Touro College of Osteopathic Medicine is limited to students who have met the following standard:

- Completion of the M.S. curriculum
- A GPA of 3.45/4.0 or higher
- A Pass on the Comprehensive Examination
